

Who are the characters in the story?

What were they doing at the start, before they went into the woods?

Why did they need to go into the woods?

How did they feel about going into the woods?
Happy? Fine?
Nervous?

So they set off happily into the woods, with no idea of what was about to come...

What were the woods like at the start? Were they beautiful at the start?

How do the characters end up getting in a problem? Does something distract them or make them change direction?

What problem do they come across? A bad character? Getting lost?

How do they solve the problem? Does it take a while or do they figure it out straight away?

How do they get back?

Do they bring anything back with them from the woods?

How does it end?
