Questionnaire

Who have you asked your questions to?

Miss Daniel

How did you talk to your friends when you were a child?

I had to use the home phone which was plugged in at the wall, so all my family could hear what I was saying! I got a mobile phone when I was 13. When I went on holiday with my mum, I wrote postcards to my friends and I used a payphone to ring my dad. You had to put coins into the phone to use it.

Did you have a phone? Which one? How much did it cost?

Yes My favourite was my Nokia 3310 About £60 I think

What did your phone look like and what could it do?

It was quite small and you could change the case to any pattern you like! I had a Tigger case. You could text but you had to press the buttons lots of times to get the right letter. There was a really fun game called Snake but it was in black and white. You couldn't get the internet or music on it.

Did you have a computer when you were little? Yes, only just!

How did you do all of your school work?

I read lots of books and I went to the library to get extra books for my learning. Sometimes I went on the internet but you had to come off when your mum needed the phone, because it used the same wires!

Did you prefer it when we didn't have all this technology? Sometimes

Why? It was nice because everyone talked more and didn't always have their eyes on their phones. But it was really hard to do school work and I think technology is brilliant today because it's much easier to talk to people in different places, like we do on Zoom! We couldn't do that when I was little.
