

Dear Diary,

Hello, how have you been? I want to tell you everything that has happened today, it has been very busy, a bit more than usual. Today I had to leave to go to work extra early because I got called in for a very important meeting I had to attend. So I got up bright and early to get there on time, but as I was driving I saw people walking with friends and hanging out, it was just un-believable. I couldn't believe it, people are STILL dis-obeying the rules. I mean, during this unknown time of year and with Covid-19 happening, I was shocked. Seriously, who goes out with friends at this time. I was so tempted to scream with horror before a policeman told them off. But wait, I knew that Officer from somewhere, it was officer Elmer. So after a little chat it was almost meeting time.

The next hour was a bit better because I had my meeting, when it was my turn to speak, I made a very important speech about how I am a highly qualified nurse and that I have lots of experience with nursing. I also talked about washing your hands and keeping clean! :)

When I had finished up, it was time to help to release somebody from Hospital, I gave another quick speech to remember to wash your hands and stay indoors!

Well, that was pretty much my day. By gosh it was tiring but I guess I will see you next time.

Best Wishes, Elmer xx

This is a diary entry from Nurse Elmer, I decided to make him instead of the real Elmer because I thought that it would be more creative, fun and unique. I tried to include lots of detail in making Elmer and his diary entry. I hope that you enjoyed reading this short diary.
